IFES support in Caribbean schools

International Fellowship of Evangelical Students (IFES) movements in the Caribbean often support outreach in many schools, both secondary and primary. Praise God for good relationships with local authorities and for Christian teachers who provide the opportunity for such groups to exist. Give thanks for older pupils who serve as leaders in the groups, and pray for those in their final year as they prepare to make the transition into tertiary education. As many end up studying far from home, it can be a challenging time for young Christians and connecting with the IFES ministry in their college or university can be an important factor in whether they continue to follow Christ.
