

The Faith to Faith Forum of Global Connections

Update: March 2011 – looking back on another busy year

What have we been doing? I am pleased to give you below, a summary about some of the activities of the past year or so and some information about the ongoing work.

Events and training:

January 2010 - Is Evangelism a Sin? Ethical Evangelism in a Pluralist Society

We ran a final teaching and discussion day in this series, this time for the students at London School of Theology, looking at the ethics of evangelism amongst Hindus, Muslims and amongst children and young people of other faiths. The speakers were Toby Howarth (Bishop of Birmingham's Adviser for Interfaith Relations), Andrew Smith (Scripture Union, Youth Encounter and the Feast) and Robin Thomson (South Asian Concern) and, judging by the students' reactions, it was obvious that some of the issues raised were quite new to them and provoked some fresh thinking about evangelism – one example looked at issues around the fifth commandment and what to do if a teenager wishes to become a Christian, while parents object.

February 2010 - Crossing Frontiers - Growing in a New Faith - Building Up Believers from Different Faith Backgrounds

This event attracted a good number of people from Asian and British backgrounds, to hear Asif Mall as the main speaker and several others in workshops on current issues around the topic, at St James' Alperton. Comments afterwards suggested that the workshops on honour and shame cultures, discipleship of new believers and being family for them, plus a look at the issues as they relate to young people, were all much appreciated.

June 2010 – Jewels in His Crown

This weekend conference was run by several representatives from several agencies and churches, for British Asian Christians and those working amongst British Asians, under the theme: Which Way the UK Asian Church? With guest speakers Clive Thorne (Lighthouse international Fellowship), Pastor G I Ebenezer (Emmanuel Christian Church, London) and Kumar Rajagopalan (London Baptist Association), this looked at styles of 'church' appropriate for people from an Asian background and ways to make them welcome. The numbers were relatively low, though we felt that the conference itself achieved our aims. (My role was in conference co-ordination and admin.) Now the committee is looking at planning some regional day events and working in close collaboration with the newly formed South Asian Forum.

Autumn 2010

We planned a forum event for the autumn looking at Buddhism in the UK, because we felt that this is a faith that is found all around us and increasing rapidly but not very visibly. With so many celebrities talking about their Buddhist faith and the suspicion that many of our friends and neighbours are embracing some aspects of Buddhist thinking, we would like to encourage appropriate church leaders in particular, to organise local outreach where relevant. Although many people encouraged us to run the event, we did not receive many bookings and so cancelled it, to avoid a financial loss. The Steering Group still feels that the topic is vital and so I have to do a little more research before we try to run something similar another time, hopefully this autumn.

January 2011 - Crossing Frontiers - Building a Multi-ethnic Church in Britain

This event at St James' Alperton, attracted a good number of people and it was great that there were also a few from an African Caribbean background as well as Asians and British. The speakers were Malcolm Steer (Iranian Fellowship) and Mansour Borji (Iranian Church Leader), on Making People Welcome, Clive Thorne and Kuldip Rajo (both from Lighthouse International church, Southampton) on Multi-ethnic approaches to the Sacraments and John Root and Ajay More (both from St James' Church, Alperton, Wembley) on handling cultural differences in Church. The feedback from the event has been both positive and helpful for the future.

Other tasks:

The e-mail newsletter

The occasional Faith to Faith newsletter (www.globalconnections.co.uk/faithtofaithresources) has continued as has a brief e-bulletin informing people of resources, ideas and events and we continue to have some input into the Global Connections newsletter on a page entitled 'Mission in the UK' (www.globalconnections.co.uk/networknews/Newsletter). The format and frequency of this is now changing, but I am hopeful that there will be some part focussing on Mission in the UK.

Faith to Faith College Database

No further progress has been made with reviewing and possibly updating or replacing this database compiled in 2006. Currently, one of the members of the Steering Group is looking at this, as there are several ways in which it could be used in the future.

Resources

I am currently endeavouring to update our resources lists, so that we can continue to recommend relevant resources for mission amongst people of different faiths in the UK. Since I am responsible for other forums for mission in the UK I am trying to collect a wide range of resource recommendations at the same time, though this will, of course slow down the process in the initial stages. (www.globalconnections.co.uk/missionintheuk).

The Steering Group for Faith to Faith

Andrew Smith from Scripture Union stepped down earlier in the year after some years on the committee, latterly as Chair. No decision has been made yet about future chairmanship and the Steering Group now comprises John Corrie from Trinity College, Bristol, Colin Edwards from Interserve, Urban Vision, Kumar Rajagopalan from London Baptist Association and Phil Rawlings from St Bride's Old Trafford, with Bryan Knell in a supportive / advisory role from Global Connections. Richard Sudworth, previously our Mission Consultant, is now ordained and is serving as curate in an inner city church in Birmingham: we have much appreciated all he gave to Faith to Faith over the years, in terms of help and wise advice and we wish him well for the future.

Related work

I am also involved in administering several other forums and groups concerning mission in the UK, encouraging individuals and churches in their work amongst people of other faiths and the cultures which they represent: Pole to Pole (ministry amongst Polish people in Britain), the East Asia Diaspora Forum and CRIB (Christian Responses to Islam in Britain). If you would like to know more, please do contact me on abower@globalconnections.co.uk and I will be glad to send more information. I am also looking at setting up a possible new initiative on mission 'from everywhere to here,' to see whether there is any benefit in gathering together mission partners who have come from other countries to the UK, probably with mission agencies here, to share the Gospel, in order to facilitate networking and to see whether there are any particular needs or difficulties that we can help with or that can be addressed through sharing together.

Global Connections, www.globalconnections.co.uk

The biggest change that we have seen in the organisation in general in the last year is that Christian Vocations, www.christianvocations.org who focus on resourcing and challenging Christians to discover and practise their God-given vocation in life and service, has now been merged with us. Two major events are being planned and details will be available on our website in due course: the annual Passion for Mission day will be on 27 June 2011, speaker Chris Wright of Langham Partnership and the Global Connections conference looking at mission in a changing world and mission with a changing church, will be from 28 to 30 November 2011.

Thank you

Many have kindly supported us in prayer and some through financial giving earmarked for Faith to Faith – I am very grateful and hopeful for your continued support. If you have any questions or relevant ideas, please do ask me.

Ann Bower

Mission in the UK and Faith to Faith Co-ordinator
www.globalconnections.co.uk/faithtofaith www.globalconnections.co.uk/ftofresources
Global Connections, Caswell Road, LEAMINGTON SPA CV31 1QD
01926 487755 abower@globalconnections.co.uk Skype: ann.bower

The Faith to Faith Forum of Global Connections

Update: March 2011 – looking back on another busy year

What have we been doing? I am pleased to give you below, a summary about some of the activities of the past year or so and some information about the ongoing work.

Events and training:

January 2010 - Is Evangelism a Sin? Ethical Evangelism in a Pluralist Society

We ran a final teaching and discussion day in this series, this time for the students at London School of Theology, looking at the ethics of evangelism amongst Hindus, Muslims and amongst children and young people of other faiths. The speakers were Toby Howarth (Bishop of Birmingham's Adviser for Interfaith Relations), Andrew Smith (Scripture Union, Youth Encounter and the Feast) and Robin Thomson (South Asian Concern) and, judging by the students' reactions, it was obvious that some of the issues raised were quite new to them and provoked some fresh thinking about evangelism – one example looked at issues around the fifth commandment and what to do if a teenager wishes to become a Christian, while parents object.

February 2010 - Crossing Frontiers - Growing in a New Faith - Building Up Believers from Different Faith Backgrounds

This event attracted a good number of people from Asian and British backgrounds, to hear Asif Mall as the main speaker and several others in workshops on current issues around the topic, at St James' Alperton. Comments afterwards suggested that the workshops on honour and shame cultures, discipleship of new believers and being family for them, plus a look at the issues as they relate to young people, were all much appreciated.

June 2010 – Jewels in His Crown

This weekend conference was run by several representatives from several agencies and churches, for British Asian Christians and those working amongst British Asians, under the theme: Which Way the UK Asian Church? With guest speakers Clive Thorne (Lighthouse international Fellowship), Pastor G I Ebenezer (Emmanuel Christian Church, London) and Kumar Rajagopalan (London Baptist Association), this looked at styles of 'church' appropriate for people from an Asian background and ways to make them welcome. The numbers were relatively low, though we felt that the conference itself achieved our aims. (My role was in conference co-ordination and admin.) Now the committee is looking at planning some regional day events and working in close collaboration with the newly formed South Asian Forum.

Autumn 2010

We planned a forum event for the autumn looking at Buddhism in the UK, because we felt that this is a faith that is found all around us and increasing rapidly but not very visibly. With so many celebrities talking about their Buddhist faith and the suspicion that many of our friends and neighbours are embracing some aspects of Buddhist thinking, we would like to encourage appropriate church leaders in particular, to organise local outreach where relevant. Although many people encouraged us to run the event, we did not receive many bookings and so cancelled it, to avoid a financial loss. The Steering Group still feels that the topic is vital and so I have to do a little more research before we try to run something similar another time, hopefully this autumn.

January 2011 - Crossing Frontiers - Building a Multi-ethnic Church in Britain

This event at St James' Alperton, attracted a good number of people and it was great that there were also a few from an African Caribbean background as well as Asians and British. The speakers were Malcolm Steer (Iranian Fellowship) and Mansour Borji (Iranian Church Leader), on Making People Welcome, Clive Thorne and Kuldip Rajo (both from Lighthouse International church, Southampton) on Multi-ethnic approaches to the Sacraments and John Root and Ajay More (both from St James' Church, Alperton, Wembley) on handling cultural differences in Church. The feedback from the event has been both positive and helpful for the future.

Other tasks:

The e-mail newsletter

The occasional Faith to Faith newsletter (www.globalconnections.co.uk/faithtofaithresources) has continued as has a brief e-bulletin informing people of resources, ideas and events and we continue to have some input into the Global Connections newsletter on a page entitled 'Mission in the UK' (www.globalconnections.co.uk/networknews/Newsletter). The format and frequency of this is now changing, but I am hopeful that there will be some part focussing on Mission in the UK.

Faith to Faith College Database

No further progress has been made with reviewing and possibly updating or replacing this database compiled in 2006. Currently, one of the members of the Steering Group is looking at this, as there are several ways in which it could be used in the future.

Resources

I am currently endeavouring to update our resources lists, so that we can continue to recommend relevant resources for mission amongst people of different faiths in the UK. Since I am responsible for other forums for mission in the UK I am trying to collect a wide range of resource recommendations at the same time, though this will, of course slow down the process in the initial stages. (www.globalconnections.co.uk/missionintheuk).

The Steering Group for Faith to Faith

Andrew Smith from Scripture Union stepped down earlier in the year after some years on the committee, latterly as Chair. No decision has been made yet about future chairmanship and the Steering Group now comprises John Corrie from Trinity College, Bristol, Colin Edwards from Interserve, Urban Vision, Kumar Rajagopalan from London Baptist Association and Phil Rawlings from St Bride's Old Trafford, with Bryan Knell in a supportive / advisory role from Global Connections. Richard Sudworth, previously our Mission Consultant, is now ordained and is serving as curate in an inner city church in Birmingham: we have much appreciated all he gave to Faith to Faith over the years, in terms of help and wise advice and we wish him well for the future.

Related work

I am also involved in administering several other forums and groups concerning mission in the UK, encouraging individuals and churches in their work amongst people of other faiths and the cultures which they represent: Pole to Pole (ministry amongst Polish people in Britain), the East Asia Diaspora Forum and CRIB (Christian Responses to Islam in Britain). If you would like to know more, please do contact me on abower@globalconnections.co.uk and I will be glad to send more information. I am also looking at setting up a possible new initiative on mission 'from everywhere to here,' to see whether there is any benefit in gathering together mission partners who have come from other countries to the UK, probably with mission agencies here, to share the Gospel, in order to facilitate networking and to see whether there are any particular needs or difficulties that we can help with or that can be addressed through sharing together.

Global Connections, www.globalconnections.co.uk

The biggest change that we have seen in the organisation in general in the last year is that Christian Vocations, www.christianvocations.org who focus on resourcing and challenging Christians to discover and practise their God-given vocation in life and service, has now been merged with us. Two major events are being planned and details will be available on our website in due course: the annual Passion for Mission day will be on 27 June 2011, speaker Chris Wright of Langham Partnership and the Global Connections conference looking at mission in a changing world and mission with a changing church, will be from 28 to 30 November 2011.

Thank you

Many have kindly supported us in prayer and some through financial giving earmarked for Faith to Faith – I am very grateful and hopeful for your continued support. If you have any questions or relevant ideas, please do ask me.

Ann Bower

Mission in the UK and Faith to Faith Co-ordinator
www.globalconnections.co.uk/faithtofaith www.globalconnections.co.uk/ftofresources
Global Connections, Caswell Road, LEAMINGTON SPA CV31 1QD
01926 487755 abower@globalconnections.co.uk Skype: ann.bower

The Faith to Faith Forum of Global Connections

Update: March 2011 – looking back on another busy year

What have we been doing? I am pleased to give you below, a summary about some of the activities of the past year or so and some information about the ongoing work.

Events and training:

January 2010 - Is Evangelism a Sin? Ethical Evangelism in a Pluralist Society

We ran a final teaching and discussion day in this series, this time for the students at London School of Theology, looking at the ethics of evangelism amongst Hindus, Muslims and amongst children and young people of other faiths. The speakers were Toby Howarth (Bishop of Birmingham's Adviser for Interfaith Relations), Andrew Smith (Scripture Union, Youth Encounter and the Feast) and Robin Thomson (South Asian Concern) and, judging by the students' reactions, it was obvious that some of the issues raised were quite new to them and provoked some fresh thinking about evangelism – one example looked at issues around the fifth commandment and what to do if a teenager wishes to become a Christian, while parents object.

February 2010 - Crossing Frontiers - Growing in a New Faith - Building Up Believers from Different Faith Backgrounds

This event attracted a good number of people from Asian and British backgrounds, to hear Asif Mall as the main speaker and several others in workshops on current issues around the topic, at St James' Alperton. Comments afterwards suggested that the workshops on honour and shame cultures, discipleship of new believers and being family for them, plus a look at the issues as they relate to young people, were all much appreciated.

June 2010 – Jewels in His Crown

This weekend conference was run by several representatives from several agencies and churches, for British Asian Christians and those working amongst British Asians, under the theme: Which Way the UK Asian Church? With guest speakers Clive Thorne (Lighthouse international Fellowship), Pastor G I Ebenezer (Emmanuel Christian Church, London) and Kumar Rajagopalan (London Baptist Association), this looked at styles of 'church' appropriate for people from an Asian background and ways to make them welcome. The numbers were relatively low, though we felt that the conference itself achieved our aims. (My role was in conference co-ordination and admin.) Now the committee is looking at planning some regional day events and working in close collaboration with the newly formed South Asian Forum.

Autumn 2010

We planned a forum event for the autumn looking at Buddhism in the UK, because we felt that this is a faith that is found all around us and increasing rapidly but not very visibly. With so many celebrities talking about their Buddhist faith and the suspicion that many of our friends and neighbours are embracing some aspects of Buddhist thinking, we would like to encourage appropriate church leaders in particular, to organise local outreach where relevant. Although many people encouraged us to run the event, we did not receive many bookings and so cancelled it, to avoid a financial loss. The Steering Group still feels that the topic is vital and so I have to do a little more research before we try to run something similar another time, hopefully this autumn.

January 2011 - Crossing Frontiers - Building a Multi-ethnic Church in Britain

This event at St James' Alperton, attracted a good number of people and it was great that there were also a few from an African Caribbean background as well as Asians and British. The speakers were Malcolm Steer (Iranian Fellowship) and Mansour Borji (Iranian Church Leader), on Making People Welcome, Clive Thorne and Kuldip Rajo (both from Lighthouse International church, Southampton) on Multi-ethnic approaches to the Sacraments and John Root and Ajay More (both from St James' Church, Alperton, Wembley) on handling cultural differences in Church. The feedback from the event has been both positive and helpful for the future.

Other tasks:

The e-mail newsletter

The occasional Faith to Faith newsletter (www.globalconnections.co.uk/faithtofaithresources) has continued as has a brief e-bulletin informing people of resources, ideas and events and we continue to have some input into the Global Connections newsletter on a page entitled 'Mission in the UK' (www.globalconnections.co.uk/networknews/Newsletter). The format and frequency of this is now changing, but I am hopeful that there will be some part focussing on Mission in the UK.

Faith to Faith College Database

No further progress has been made with reviewing and possibly updating or replacing this database compiled in 2006. Currently, one of the members of the Steering Group is looking at this, as there are several ways in which it could be used in the future.

Resources

I am currently endeavouring to update our resources lists, so that we can continue to recommend relevant resources for mission amongst people of different faiths in the UK. Since I am responsible for other forums for mission in the UK I am trying to collect a wide range of resource recommendations at the same time, though this will, of course slow down the process in the initial stages. (www.globalconnections.co.uk/missionintheuk).

The Steering Group for Faith to Faith

Andrew Smith from Scripture Union stepped down earlier in the year after some years on the committee, latterly as Chair. No decision has been made yet about future chairmanship and the Steering Group now comprises John Corrie from Trinity College, Bristol, Colin Edwards from Interserve, Urban Vision, Kumar Rajagopalan from London Baptist Association and Phil Rawlings from St Bride's Old Trafford, with Bryan Knell in a supportive / advisory role from Global Connections. Richard Sudworth, previously our Mission Consultant, is now ordained and is serving as curate in an inner city church in Birmingham: we have much appreciated all he gave to Faith to Faith over the years, in terms of help and wise advice and we wish him well for the future.

Related work

I am also involved in administering several other forums and groups concerning mission in the UK, encouraging individuals and churches in their work amongst people of other faiths and the cultures which they represent: Pole to Pole (ministry amongst Polish people in Britain), the East Asia Diaspora Forum and CRIB (Christian Responses to Islam in Britain). If you would like to know more, please do contact me on abower@globalconnections.co.uk and I will be glad to send more information. I am also looking at setting up a possible new initiative on mission 'from everywhere to here,' to see whether there is any benefit in gathering together mission partners who have come from other countries to the UK, probably with mission agencies here, to share the Gospel, in order to facilitate networking and to see whether there are any particular needs or difficulties that we can help with or that can be addressed through sharing together.

Global Connections, www.globalconnections.co.uk

The biggest change that we have seen in the organisation in general in the last year is that Christian Vocations, www.christianvocations.org who focus on resourcing and challenging Christians to discover and practise their God-given vocation in life and service, has now been merged with us. Two major events are being planned and details will be available on our website in due course: the annual Passion for Mission day will be on 27 June 2011, speaker Chris Wright of Langham Partnership and the Global Connections conference looking at mission in a changing world and mission with a changing church, will be from 28 to 30 November 2011.

Thank you

Many have kindly supported us in prayer and some through financial giving earmarked for Faith to Faith – I am very grateful and hopeful for your continued support. If you have any questions or relevant ideas, please do ask me.

Ann Bower

Mission in the UK and Faith to Faith Co-ordinator
www.globalconnections.co.uk/faithtofaith www.globalconnections.co.uk/ftofresources
Global Connections, Caswell Road, LEAMINGTON SPA CV31 1QD
01926 487755 abower@globalconnections.co.uk Skype: ann.bower